Mahan Air entering into close cooperation with AVIAREPS

Sales and marketing representation for Germany and the Benelux countries contracted

11 January 2010

AVIAREPS has been appointed by Mahan Air as their sales and marketing representative. The international airline and tourism management company has been contracted to assist Mahan Air with all sales, marketing and ticketing activities in Germany and the Benelux countries. Mahan Air runs a sales and ticket office in Düsseldorf, which will continue business as usual. The focus of the new cooperation with AVIAREPS is to strengthen the market position and to increase the market share of Mahan Air.

Mahan Air has developed an extensive route network spanning 28 cities in Europe, the Far East and the Middle East. Currently, the airline operates four weekly flights from Düsseldorf (Germany) to the Imam Khomeini Airport in Tehran – every Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. This route is carefully coordinated with flights to Bangkok (Thailand), Amritsar and Delhi (both in India). Further convenient connecting flights to the new international destinations are planned for 2010.

“AVIAREPS is a valuable addition to our global GSA network,” said Mahan Air. “This appointment ensures that we will continue to offer a first-rate service to our customers in Germany and the Benelux countries, which are very important markets for us.”

Edgar Lacker, Vice President Passenger Sales Germany at AVIAREPS, points out: “We proudly include Mahan Air in our client portfolio. Thanks to the strong international network and our long experience, AVIAREPS will contribute to strengthening the position of Mahan Air in the contracted territories.”
