AVIANET markets its first app

Quick solution for tracking IATA airline and airport codes launched

06 December 2011

AVIANET, Munich-based provider for global IT services and a wholly owned subsidiary of AVIAREPS AG, has just launched its first app. Having a strong affinity to airline solutions, AVIANET's "Travel Code" also deals with the daily issues of air travel. The app can be downloaded free of charge in the iTunes store and is based on an Apple iOS platform.

The concept of Travel Code is simple: The app facilitates the tracking of IATA airline, airport and country codes. It enables a quick and easy reference by either typing the name of an airline, airport or country and providing the respective two or three letter code within seconds or by entering a code and getting the full name of the airline, airport or country immediately.

"Travel Code" is designed for industry professionals, passionate travellers and consumers alike. "The app is a simple tool that allows easy handling and shows immediate results for the user", says Arshad Mughal, General Manager of AVIANET. "Even when working in the aviation business, hardly anyone can keep all codes in mind or know the full facts behind them. With our new app, a convenient solution is provided for anyone keen to have all codes at hand.”
